

Bill Mocha and John on Christmas day 2014.

Mocha is an eight-year-old mustang. This is his first time pulling a wagon. John who is 20, has been pulling for many years. The horses are catching their wind at the buffalo prairie. Bill is making certain the horses stay on their side of the fence.

This is Mocha's first workday in harness.

John is our most experienced work horse.

It is good practice to team a green horse with a senior one for training.

Animals of all species learn from each other.

It is impressive to watch how an older horse disciplines and teaches a younger horse how to work.

We adopted Blue and Mocha as yearlings seven years ago.

Blue grew faster and is stockier than Mocha. Blue has been working in both saddle and harness for several years.

Mocha has been working in saddle for several years but because he is slight of build, I let him get older before using him in harness. He worked very well. Mocha will be in the bobsled teams this winter.
