Standing in front of the old house on an early spring day.

John, Tom, Annie, Pa, holding baby Pat, in front of 1950 Dodge.

John wore a replica sheepskin WWII bombers cap.

They were very popular with boys after the war.

Most of our dress clothes, like church jackets and good caps, were hand-me-downs from Teddy.

John got them first, and then me.

We didn't mind that at all.

Everybody had hand-me-down clothes and toys

Pa always wore a fedora and a pipe.

Eventually he wore a slot for his pipe stem.

Other than that, Pa had perfect teeth.
